THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF DEFENCE (SHRI RAO INDERJIT SINGH): (a), (b) and (d) In May 2001, the defence sector was opened up to 100% for Indian private sector participation with FDI permissible up to 26%, both subject to licensing. A very large number of Indian private sector companies are already working with Defence Public Sector Undertakings and Ordnance Factories and supplying input materials to them. Providing access to the private sector in defence production introduces at element of competition so that defence industry as a whole upgrades and improves its functioning. This will also facilitate utilization of resources available both in the public and private sector to accelerate the pace of self-reliance in defence production.

(c) Capacity utilization of Ordnance Factories and Defence Public Sector Undertakings during last three years is indicated in the enclosed Statement.

Separate identity of coast guard from Indian Navy

2060. SHRI S.M. LALJAN BASHA: Will the Minister of DEFENCE be pleased to state:

whether the Coast Guard is embarking on a programme to create a separate identity from the Indian Navy;

if so, whether any doctrine or tested strategy lies beneath this deliberate drift of the Coast Guard from the Indian Navy;

whether officers from para-military forces will be taken on deputation by the Coast Guard in future;

if not, in what manner will Coast Guard make a distinctive identity for itself; and the steps proposed by Government to formulate a "Code of Conduct" for Coast Guard in their dealings with fisherman?

THE MINISTER OF DEFENCE (SHRI A.K. ANTONY): (a) to (c) The Indian Coast Guard was constituted as a separate Armed Force of Union for ensuring the security of the Maritime Zone of India with a view to the protection of maritime and other national interest in such zones and the matters connected therewith under the provisions of Coast Guard Act, 1978. While there is a distinct role of Coast Guard in maritime affairs, there is a synergy between the Indian Navy and the Indian Coast Guard. Coast Guard has its own organisation and force and no need has been felt to take personnel from other Para-Military Forces on deputation. Coast Guard is a disciplined Armed Force of the Union and there are clear guidelines for its personnel to conduct themselves in different scenario including dealing with fishermen.
